

CONVENTION KILLS TIME WAITING REPORT OF COMMITTEE DELAYED BY CONTESTED DELEGATIONS' FIGHTS

ADJOURNED THIS AFTERNOON AT 2:17 UNTIL EIGHT TONIGHT—MANY ORATORS ENTHUSE THE VAST AUDIENCE TO FRENZIED OUT. BURLS.

BRYAN SULKS IN TENT

Great Commoner Refuses to Act As Chairman for Platform Committee "Because He is Not in Sympathy With National Committee."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] BALTIMORE, Md., June 20.—The convention met shortly after twelve and on failure of credential committee to report, adjourned until eight this evening. During interim many prominent democrats spoke in behalf of harmony and urged party to unite for democratic success. Discord in republican party is shown by speakers to be a certain indication of democratic success at the polls next November. Bryan refuses chairmanship of platform committee, stating he is not in accord with party management. Talk of third party with Bryan dominant factor revived by conference between Commoner and republican bolting leaders.

Baltimore, June 20.—Delegates filed slowly into the big hall today with but a scattered attendance of the floor.

At 11:30 a wave of heat seemed to fill the big building and also promise of a sweltering proceedings. Floor and galleries decided on negligible rain and coats were stripped off just as the delegates struck the clear atmosphere of the hall. Hundreds of palm leaf fans fluttered throughout the building, galleries and floor filled up very slowly but the sergeant-at-arms and police had trouble keeping the aisles clear. Warned by the disorder of yesterday's proceedings John Martin marshalled a squad of policemen and posted them in the gallery with orders to eject anyone creating a disturbance. Some ten minutes before noon the right Rev. John G. Murray of Baltimore, chaplain of the day, took his place on the platform. At 12:00 the

ONE OF THESE SENATORS FOR HARMON. ANOTHER FOR CLARK, THIRD FOR WILSON

At the top, Senator Hitchcock and Senator Gore; at the bottom, Senator Pomeroy. One of the most earnest workers in Judson Harmon's cause at the Baltimore convention is Alton Pomeroy, U. S. senator from Ohio. Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, would like to vote for Harmon, too, but the people of his state voted for Champ Clark in the primaries, and so the senator must work for Clark in the convention. Victor M. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, is a Woodrow Wilson man. Gore is one of the most militant of the progressives in the Democratic party.

galleries were less than half filled. The delegates' seats were gradually filling up, however, and the floor was in confusion. Chairman Parker had not yet appeared but national chairman Mack was on the platform. The heat grew more intense as the big hall filled up. At 12:22 Chairman Parker pounded his desk with the gavel and the sergeant-at-arms added by police set out to clear the aisles. Slowly the convention confusion subsided and the convention got under way. Bishop Murray offered prayer. When the prayer was concluded Gov. Blanchard of Louisiana, reported the credential committee would not be ready to report until 8 p. m. He said he would the different delegations. The band joined in the demonstration. Chairman Parker made an attempt to quell the riot of sound that followed Clayton's address. The bands added to the confusion by starting up the Southern air. The aisles became choked, delegates trying to wrench the state standards from their supporters. Police and sergeant-at-arms were diligent and prevented any parade, although one was started by a delegation raising an umbrella and beginning a march. "New Jersey, please sit down!" "Missouri, give the speaker a chance," cried the sergeant-at-arms, but it was some time before Clayton could be heard. When he closed his talk with the remark, "Whoever is nominated will be the next president."

Reilly of Massachusetts was the next speaker and he discussed general issues, urged legislation for labor and took occasion to endorse Champ Clark. Senator Gore of Oklahoma was the next speaker and he made some strong remarks. Among his most telling statements were: "Let us have peace. Let us have peace at any price; and sacrifice but that of honor. Let every democrat keep the peace." "Nothing can save the republican party from slaughter but democratic suicide. We can be half progressive and half reactionary. We must get together." Theodore Roosevelt tried to breathe the breath of modern life into the portly republican party at Chicago, but the mummy would not move. Senator Gore was followed by John Temple Graves of Georgia and former Governor Campbell of Ohio. An effort was made from the floor to upset the arrangement for tomorrow's session and adjourn the convention until 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The attempt failed and at 2:17 the convention adjourned until 8 o'clock tonight. It had been decided, at the request of Mr. Bryan, to defer the drawing of a platform until after the nomination. Senator Olla James of Kentucky had been agreed upon for permanent chairman of the convention and it was expected at tonight's session there would be no friction in the permanent organization. Half a dozen speakers delivered typical campaign speeches at today's session. Another important proposition passed upon by the rules committee was the recognition of the authority of a state convention to instruct delegates to national conventions in the enforcement of the unit rule in the absence of a specific statute. The twenty Roger C. Sullivan delegates from the ten congressional districts in Cook county, Ill., were sent this afternoon by the credential committee by a vote of 40 to 10. A minority report will be presented to the convention. The sixteen Sullivan delegates at large from Illinois having eight votes in the convention were sent by a vote of 42 to 3. A motion to send the Sullivan men in the 17th and 20th Illinois districts carried 38 to 12. At two-o'clock the convention adjourned until this evening, when it will hear the report of the credential committee and also elect a permanent organization.

HIS JOB WILL BE TO PRESERVE ORDER

In looking around for a man big enough to preserve order at this national convention, the Democrats hardly hit upon Mr. John W. Martin. He is a big, good natured fellow, and will doubtless fill the bill as sergeant-at-arms in a manner that will satisfy the most order-loving Democrat.

With the nominating session expected to be held tomorrow presidential gossip filled the air today. It seems to be admitted by all that Speaker Champ Clark will go into the convention with a distinct advantage over all the other candidates. Mr. Bryan's friends refuse to consider him out of the running and say his defeat for the temporary chairmanship yesterday was in no sense a test of what his strength would be as the presidential nominee. The Bryan followers are hopeful that the nomination fight may go to a fourth or fifth ballot and think that in that situation many of the delegates would go to him. "Dark Horse" talk was more general today than ever before. This was partly due to the fact that the New York delegation has determined to vote for Mayor William J. Gaynor on the first ballot. The evident purpose of this is to get a test among the candidates and something of a true line on the situation. Others interpreted it as meaning that Mayor Gaynor may be boosted for the vice presidency.

The Woodrow Wilson people who stood by Mr. Bryan almost to a man in his fight for the temporary chairmanship are expecting his support in return when it comes to nominating and apparently base their hopes of success upon some such action.

It is realized by all that the two thirds vote necessary to nominate in the convention can only be secured by a combination of some of the candidates or by a "break" or "stampede" of the delegates. The various leaders are firm in the belief there will be no stampede and they do not even fear Mr. Bryan himself in that respect.

Friends of Governor Foss of Massachusetts "impervious" the Baltimore memory this morning with an appeal to the democrats to nominate the Massachusetts man for the presidency. Thousand of copies of a pamphlet giving Gov. Foss' record and a circular headed, "Foss the only Democrat who can win" were distributed to call attention to the delegates as they arrived.

Because he is not in sympathy with the forces seemingly in control of the Baltimore convention, William J. Bryan of Nebraska, today declined to accept the chairmanship of the resolutions committee unanimously tendered him. Senator John W. Kern was elected after Mr. Bryan twice refused the honor.

Not content to so easily abandon their harmony program the committee turned the matter over to Senators Raynor, O'Connell, Culberson and they held an earnest discussion with Mr. Bryan in one corner of the room. Their efforts were fruitless. Mr. Bryan had announced his position and it was unalterable.

Senator Kern was turned to as representing the progressive democracy and there was no nomination in opposition to him. His election was unanimous and the committee began hearings preliminary to closing the doors for the actual work of making the party program.

Mr. Bryan's motion that the presentation of a platform be deferred until after nominations by the committee was carried 11 to 9. The committee plans may be for the building of a party platform, what thinks it may contain or whether it will be progressive or conservative. Mr. Bryan is keeping concealed from his friends.

Mr. Bryan had no statement to make this morning regarding either the platform or Judge Parker's appeal to the delegates to make Bryan chairman of the resolution committee. Returning to his hotel from a visit to Mayor Preston, the Nebraska man spent the early morning hours in correspondence and then went to the convention hall to attend a meeting of the resolutions committee.

"The delegates are saying below that you will write the party platform," was suggested. "But a progressive platform would be a rebuke to the convention, would it not?" was Mr. Bryan's reply.

Mr. Bryan when told that many delegates believed the vote yesterday indicated the convention was progressive and that he would be able to name the candidate for the presidential nomination said: "I think the convention would have the reactionary stamp with the 'qualifications' unless the delegates hear from home. The vote would indicate that I am down."

"But not out," added a friend. "With the 'qualifications' I don't mind it a bit," smilingly said Mr. Bryan.

Beaten on the first bid for support of the convention in behalf of the progressive Mr. Bryan still is a dominant factor in this convention. By reason of that defeat he appears to be eliminated as a presidential candidate, but he has sufficient following to throw the nomination in the event of a close race between two candidates, with all others eliminated.

His friends are confident that he will be the nominee if there is no change on the first few ballots. All the committees are to meet today two hours before the convention opens. The credentials committee has one important contest to hear that affecting the Sullivan and Harrison-forest faction in Illinois. The national committee placed the names of the Sullivan delegates on the temporary roll but the other factions declare they will take the fight all the way to the floor of the convention. Thirty-one delegates are at stake including eight at large. The fight really is between the Wilson and Clark forces and resulted as the interpretation of the Illinois primary law.

Other contests to be decided involved the entire delegation from Rhode Island, nine district delegates from Missouri, seven district delegates from Texas, six delegates from Alabama, two from the District of Columbia and four from Pennsylvania. Senator-elect Olla M. James of Kentucky, Theodore Bell of California, by some progressives who feel it may be impossible to unite two thirds of the delegates for either speaker Clark or Governor Wilson. Those men are working quietly but they may see the movement has gained considerable momentum.

The credentials committee at 11:30 determined to ask the convention to adjourn until 8 tonight owing to the inability of the committee to complete work on the contest cases. Arguments in the Illinois case had not been concluded at this time.

When the delegates to the democratic national convention gathered today all the committees were expected to be ready with their reports so that all business except the nomination of a president and vice-president may be disposed of before adjournment.

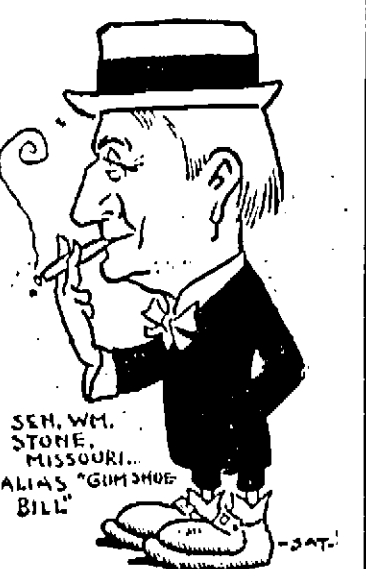

Balloting for president will begin tomorrow, according to present indications.

Immediately after the report of the credentials committee and the adoption of the permanent roll today, the convention will choose its permanent officers. The identity of the permanent chairman may remain unknown to the last minute. In all probability a progressive candidate will be chosen, the conservatives having shown a willingness to make this concession since their victory over Bryan yesterday.

Scenes such as those which marked the opening of the convention yesterday when disorder in the galleries forced a recess, seriously delays business and strains the temper of the delegates who already are tiring of getting home. Better order prevailed last night because the police were there to keep the aisles clear and suppress the noisy spectators. The assistant sergeant-at-arms had demonstrated that they could not maintain quiet, even among themselves.

The second day of a national convention rarely furnishes many thrills. It corresponds to the second act of a four act play. The plot is slowly unfolding with no hint at the climax. An interesting feature of the day should be the report of the resolutions committee. Mr. Bryan is a member of the committee. It is not unreasonable to presume that he will construct a portion of the platform, which means that it will be one on which the stamp of the progressives is plainly marked.

Whatever William Jennings Bryan's

plans may be for the building of a party platform, what thinks it may contain or whether it will be progressive or conservative. Mr. Bryan is keeping concealed from his friends.

Causes Sensation. Norfolk, Va., June 20.—Reverend Holmes S. Gravat, pastor of a Methodist Episcopal church of Camden, N. J., caused a prolonged demonstration for William Jennings Bryan at the night session of the worldwide Philanthropic convention last night. Mr. Gravat referred to Mr. Bryan as a "true Christian gentleman." There was deafening applause from two thousand delegates and spectators.

CITY OF CHIHUAHUA WILL BE PROTECTED

Rebels Will Probably Leave Neutral Force to Police City After They Evacuate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

At Gen. Huerta's headquarters, Orizaba, Mex., June 20.—The request of Gen. Huerta respect the neutrality of a garrison that might be left to protect the city of Chihuahua, was received here today. Gen. Huerta communicated his reply as follows: "I will give all guarantees to any forces Orozco may leave to protect the people of the city of Chihuahua provided those forces have only the nature of police, keeping order, and guarding the prison and pen. 'Some of the rebel scouting parties advanced too closely to Orizaba today and were captured by the federal vanguard. A shot-out firing a shot. Nearly the entire federal army had crossed the river at Orizaba, the artillery alone awaiting the completion of the big Ortiz bridge. This should be finished by nightfall. Bridge Nearly Done. At the rebel front, Chihuahua, June 20.—The government forces appear to be directing all their efforts to reconstructing the big Ortiz bridge fifteen miles south of here. A temporary structure is being erected to replace the costly steel arch destroyed by retreating rebels. Federal trains should be running in within twenty-four hours over the new span and the smaller bridges north of Orizaba probably will delay the advance of the government columns only a few hours. It is believed the rebels will be in position to attack Chihuahua not later than Thursday. At the rebel front Chihuahua, Mex., June 20.—Government forces have dashed in behind the rebel army, a sharp skirmish raging throughout the night at Porto Del Plon near Horcasillas 8 miles of Chihuahua and but 27 miles from the city of Chihuahua. The federal came from the west and are thought to have been the vanguard of the big rebel flank movement designed by the rebels to cut off a rebel retreat to Chihuahua. Losses as yet are unknown. The main columns if rebels are today moving north of Orizaba 15 miles south of Chihuahua. The federal artillery shelled the town of Mequillo, but no rebels were there to offer resistance.

MEET TO FRAME CODE INTERNATIONAL LAW

Conference Assembles in Rio de Janeiro With Delegates From Nearly All American Republics.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Rio de Janeiro, June 20.—The conference of the International Commission of Jurists, for which the preliminary arrangements were made at the Pan-American Congress of last year, assembled in this city today with delegates in attendance, from virtually all of the American republics. The United States has sent as its representative Frederick Van Dyne, assistant solicitor of the Department of State, and John Bassett Moore, professor of international law and diplomacy at Columbia University. The conference is expected to initiate the first formal code of international law, to which all the American states will subscribe, and which eventually may become the basis for the administration of the great international tribunal for which peace advocates have been striving.

MANY PRIESTS HERE FOR CONFIRMATION

Several From Out of Town Attended Services For Large Class at St. Patrick's Church Yesterday.

One hundred and seventy boys and girls received the confirmation at St. Patrick's church yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Auxiliary Bishop Kondalla of Milwaukee conferred confirmation. The confirmation services were attended by a large number of priests, among those present being: Revs. John Buckley, Delavan; Thomas Dempsey, Monroe, J. G. Smith, Brookfield; James Harlin, Edgerton; Michael Condon, Oregon; Phila. Platteville; Joseph Haas, Beloit; F. T. Kelly, Milwaukee; and William A. Goshel, St. Mary's church, Janesville.

POURING CONCRETE FOR WEST ABUTMENT

Great Quantity Will Be Required to Fill Forms—Necessary to Keep Mud Pump at Work.

Concrete is now being poured in the forms for the west bank abutment of the Fourth avenue bridge. The mixer has been stationed on a platform over the forms so that it can discharge directly into them through a large diameter pipe. Although mud has once been pumped from the bottom of the forms it continues to ooze in so rapidly that it is necessary to keep the pump in continual operation, the concrete being put in as soon afterward as possible. No work was done at the east abutment today, all the laborers being concentrated at the west abutment. The driving of piles in the east abutment will be completed in about three days.

It is estimated that about 400 yards of gravel and 300 barrels of cement will be required for the concrete construction, not including that used for the floors. A large portion of the brick and asphalt to be used for paving the bridge has been piled up at the approaches.

HAVE RAISED TRACK TO LEVEL OF BRIDGE

Little Work Remains To Be Done On Grade—City Will Haul in Waste As It Accumulates.

The factory siding on the west bank of the river has been raised to the level of the Racine street bridge, making a satisfactory approach to the structure from that side. A small amount of ballasting has to be done to the south of the approach, and some to the north, but this will be finished by the present in about three days. The railway will raise to grade the storage and shipping siding which has been left several feet below the level of the one raised. From this time on the city will haul in waste as it accumulates, but will not keep men or teams constantly at work. The track is now in shape for use and the establishing of the "third grade" will be done leisurely and at an additional expense.

STOLEN HORSES BROUGHT BACK FROM MILWAUKEE

Arrived Here This Morning on Train—Nelson Horse Had Been Injured by a Fall and Turned Into Pasture.

The horses and carriages stolen from the Nelson Brothers and Sheridan Brothers' livery last Sunday were shipped by train from Milwaukee last night and arrived here this morning. The Nelson horse had been skinned in a fall and one shaft of the buggy was broken. The thieves had turned it into a pasture near Hale's Corners, evidently fearing to have their progress interrupted by taking it with them. No one saw them, but the horse in the pasture, so it was probably done at night. The Sheridan horse and carriage were uninjured. Both Messrs. Sheridan and Nelson have resolved to let no horses to strangers who do not render a satisfactory account of themselves.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Havana, Cuba, June 26.—An official note issued from the palace today states that President Gomez conferred late last night with several representatives of the liberal party who gave him assurances that they would support the administration and strive their utmost to effect liberal unity. A conspicuous feature of the meeting was the absence of vice president Zulu.

You Save Money By Buying Advertised Goods

By W. C. Kenaga.

Every merchant must add to the cost of his merchandise a certain per cent, which represents the cost of doing business plus a profit. So when you buy you help pay rent, clerk hire and insurance whether the merchant advertises or not.

"A" will say, sells men's hats. He doesn't advertise, he averages about 25 sales a day—and 25 customers must therefore pay his rent, clerk hire and insurance at a profit.

"B" across the street, also sells hats. His store is the same size as "A," he has the same number of clerks, rent is the same. "B" advertises and sells 125 hats a day. His expenses are divided among five times as many people as "A's." "B's" stock is always fresh and up to the minute and "B's" patrons get more quality for less money than they can get at "A's."

Instead of increasing the cost of living, good newspaper advertising lessens it.

TRY CIVIL ACTION IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Case of Miles F. Bixley Versus Roseling Brothers Presented to Jury This Afternoon.

The case of Miles F. Bixley, proprietor of a jewelry business in Cleveland, Ohio, against Roseling Brothers of this city was tried in the Municipal Court this afternoon. Attorney A. M. Fisher appearing for the plaintiff and Attorney Charles Lang for the defendants. A panel of six jurors was drawn, they were: J. H. Burns, W. V. Conrad, David Kane, H. O. Schmiedley, James H. Ryan and W. T. Schofield.

The action arose over a contract of sale, made in June of last year, and is for the purpose of recovering the sum of $192 and interests. Defendant refused to accept the goods sent them because they maintained the contract was nullified by a demand for payment at a time sooner than was stipulated in the contract. The further defense is made that the plaintiff is a foreign corporation and that it has not incorporated in business in this state. The order of goods shipped which the dispute arose was shipped back to Cleveland by Roseling Brothers but has never been taken out of the express office.

Greatness and the Chain.

No man can be a great officer who is not infinitely patient of details, for an army is an aggregation of details, a defect in any one of which may destroy or impair the whole. Nebraska State Golf Tourney.
Omaha, Neb., June 26.—Under conditions giving high promise of success, the eighth annual tournament of the Nebraska State Golf association was started today on the links of the Omaha Country Club. The finals will be played Saturday. The leading golf clubs of the state,

It's tough to be a star pitcher thinks 124, Walsh, of the Chicago White Sox. Manager Cullahan worked Walsh to excess at the beginning of the season in order to put the Sox in first place. The big split baller finally got tired. He is no longer able to win consistently, and the Sox are traveling on the downward path.

"I don't think I'm all in, but I am going to take a long rest," said Cy Young, the veteran pitcher of the Boston Nationals, recently. "The arm is in worse condition than I thought it was," he added.

Cy is done for as a league pitcher. Little doubt about that. He pitched a few innings in an amateur game recently. He was hit freely, and his arm was tired after the game.

Chicago will be the center of the aviation world for a time this summer when the Aero club of Illinois runs its great program of aerial events. Starting with the Gordon Bennett international cup race in September and ending with an open air aviation war play on an elaborate scale, the promoting club will demonstrate the progress of aviation as it has never been demonstrated anywhere before.

Men from every part of the world will participate in the events. Last year the Gordon Bennett cup was raced for in Europe. The winners' average speed was 78 miles per hour. This year it is likely that an average speed of 100 miles an hour will be attained.

Including those of Omaha, Lincoln, Hastings, Nebraska City, Fremont and several other cities are represented among the entries.

BASEBALL NOTES.

According to unofficial figures the Washington team has seven men in the 300 list of batters.

With the exception of Zimmerman the Chicago Cubs have not been able to do much in the batting line this season.

Catcher Hank Gowdy, of the Boston Nationals, is temporarily out of the game nursing an injured hand.

The Philadelphia Nationals have landed Pitcher Rixey, the clever southpaw of the University of Virginia baseball team.

It begins to look as though the Pittsburgh Pirates are the real "hopes" to give battle to the Giants for the National League laurels.

The Cleveland Naps have four of the first six men in the honor list of American league batters, and still the Naps are not able to get up among the contenders.

When the Boston Red Sox visited Chicago Tri Speaker made six hits, with a total of 10, against Ed Walsh in the two games the "Big Moose" pitched.

It would be tough for the St. Louis fans to have two teams in the cellar at the same time, so it is up to Roger Bresnahan to keep his Cardinals hanging on the ladder.

Detroit and Chicago fell down badly on their home grounds against the Eastern teams. The Tigers won six of the sixteen games played and the White Sox capped only five out of sixteen games.

They say that Eddie Plank is going back, but when the veteran pitcher of the Athletics can win eight out of nine games as he has done this season, more "saying" doesn't count for much.

Some of the critics predicted the first of the season that the Cincinnati Reds would curl up and wither about July 4, and Hank O'Day will have to keep his hired men on their toes or the critics will win.

It is said that five clubs, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh, are lined up solidly against President Lynch of the National League. The chief count in the indictment against Mr. Lynch is alleged poor work in handling his staff of umpires.

With only two veterans in the regular line-up, Milan and McBride, the Washington Senators have been standing the American league teams on their heels. Moeller, Gumbel, Foster, Shanks and Morgan, the other stellar members of the Griffith aggregation, are youngsters.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE RULES ARE REVISED

Provisions Made by Managers to Strengthen Weak Teams Assuring Better Games—Saturday Game Illegal.

Managers of the teams in the commercial league in their regular weekly meeting at the Y. M. C. A., building last night took important action revising the rules of the league with the idea of strengthening weaker teams thus assuring better games. The matter of the contested game between the Recorder and Hanson company also last Saturday came before the managers and it was decided to uphold the decision of the umpire that the game was illegal on the ground that both teams had violated the rules of the league in playing more outside men than was permissible. The game will be played at some future date.

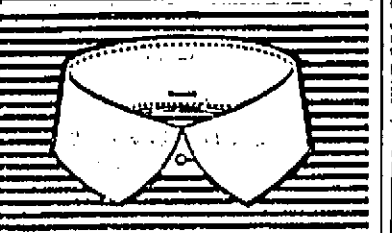

It was decided among other changes in the rules, to set the time of employment in any of the institutions represented in the league before eligibility as players in the teams, at ten days instead of sixty as was the previous requirement. The rule providing that a player from one team shall not play with any other team in the league under penalty of being barred from playing on his own team again during the season, was also changed. The new rule provided that if the player's manager consents and if the managers of the two teams that are playing, agree, the player may be secured to play on either of the teams on the diamond without forfeiting his membership in his own team. This will allow teams with a weak line-up to draft several strong players to insure a better game.

Other matters pertaining to the games were discussed. The matter of attendance came up and it was again noted that transportation facilities were the best and that the admission price was very low to two games at each park. Manager Campbell of the Recorder and Briggs of the Gazette were named publicity men for the league and it will be their duty to keep the public informed through the press as to the games and other affairs of the league.

It will be the effort of the league to furnish good games each Saturday afternoon. All rowdiness has been eliminated and each contest will be purely for recreation and pleasure. The games next Saturday will be as follows: Parker Pen and Hanson Furniture Co., first game, and C. & N. W. and Janesville Machine Co., second game at Athletic park. Recorder vs. Y. M. C. A. first game, and Gazette vs. Lewis Knitting, second game at the Park association diamond. The first game will be called at 2:45 and the second at 4:00. Be a bonder and see the games. Following is the present standing of the teams:

Parker	4	3	1	.750

PLAN STATE LEAGUE FOR REPEAL OF LAW

Anti Income Tax Organization Is Being Planned—Cards Sent Out For Signatures.

Under the guidance of Harry W. Bolens, Mayor of Port Washington and one of the best known democratic leaders of the state, there is in process formation of an anti-income tax league, whose object is to secure the repeal of the Wisconsin state income tax law. The cards sent out are in the form of a pledge, entitling the signer as a member of the proposed league and also promising not to vote for any candidate who does not favor the repeal of the law. Mr. Bolens is working on a non-partisan ground and is receiving support from many prominent republicans throughout the state. He plans to visit Janesville some time in the near future and make a public address, setting forth what he hopes to accomplish by the league and showing up the income law in its true light. It may be interesting to note that Mr. Bolens's father was one of the pioneer democratic editors of the state and was once, owner of the Democrat in this city, which was afterwards merged into the present Recorder. Mr. Bolens is himself connected with the newspaper work and owns a weekly paper in his home city. A number of the cards have been sent to the Gazette office and can be obtained there by those wishing to affiliate with the proposed league.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR VARSITY CREW

Former Coxswain Richardson Thinks Wisconsin Crews Have Splendid Chances of Winning at Poughkeepsie.

(By W. D. Richardson.)
Coxswain of the Wisconsin Crews in 1909-1910.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 26.—Unless all signs fail these Badgers are going to be in at the finish on Saturday.

In spite of the fact that the east can see nothing but the east, the Badger varsity eight has a better than even chance to break the long string of defeats that have been their portion since the first crew traveled eastward in 1890.

The varsity can go the distance. That was shown in the trial held on Saturday and if they go the way they did then it will take a record breaker to defeat them. As for the freshmen, there is not a man in the camp who is not optimistic over their chances with the other yearling eight.

Capt. Pollock's men are improving daily and the work of the crew now is a big improvement over what it was when they came here. It is without a doubt the smoothest boat Wisconsin has sent in years. In addition to the power the men possess the speed, and going full tilt, their form is as good as when rowing the slow stroke.

Today the work was easy, consisting of a row over the course with the freshmen. Coach Vail did not allow them to hit it up, but kept the stroke down to twenty-six this morning. In the afternoon he gave them a more puzzle in order to get them in shape for the final time row tonight. Conf. No. 2, has an infected row, but is fairly sure to leave the boat. All the other men are in good condition.

ROOSEVELT'S FRIENDSHIPS.
"It is one of the peculiar developments of the present political situation that the strongest supporters of Roosevelt now are the men with whom he never formerly maintained any relations of personal friendship. He declares that they have all been brought together by the principles which they support. In common, and men in Washington, who know about the personal relations of public men realize there is more truth in this than the general public is disposed to believe. Roosevelt's friendships, like many other characteristics of the man, are exceedingly genuine. Many of them have been mistakes. It is one of Roosevelt's weaknesses that to like a man is to believe in him. Thus, when he liked Taft he believed Taft was the right man to support for the presidency. He conceded that Taft was an able man among his cabinet members, and that Taft was probably as well if not better qualified for the presidency than Taft. But he liked Taft best and he sincerely believed the country would like him. His friendship with Taft ended when he saw that he was entirely mistaken in his estimate of Taft. When he made Blaine a candidate for governor of New York, he breathed into him something of his own spirit, and then mistook it for a manifestation of Blaine's own convictions and strength. He has done this repeatedly, and probably will continue to make the same kind of mistakes all the rest of his life. They are essentially human mistakes, and except in the case of Taft, who was accepted by the country upon Roosevelt's endorsement, are mistakes which hurt him far more than they do anybody else."

A writer in the July Metropolitan thus discusses Theodore Roosevelt from the standpoint of friendship. That his estimate of the man is correct, will not be questioned, for he possesses an impulsive nature and all the characteristics which appeal to personal popularity. The men who knew him during his ranch life were captured by his strong personality, and the title of "rough rider," which they gave him as a token of respect, still clings to him, and the friends of earlier years, still delight to do him homage.

Friendship for this sort of a man is contagious, and when Colonel Roosevelt left the White House he was recognized by the masses as the friend of the common people. Many people who never met him, were ready to defend him and fight his battles. This spirit of loyalty to the man, was his great element of strength. In the recent campaign, and if success comes to his new party it will be because of the human interest which he inspires.

The man who enjoys the love and confidence of the common people is immune from criticism on the part of his admirers, and whatever mistakes he may make are overlooked or ignored. When Roosevelt returned from Africa, he was the best-known and most popular man living. It is to be regretted that he was not satisfied to rest for a time on his laurels.

SUMMER STOPS THE SWING.

"If you exert a pound of pressure against a man in a swing you'll start him moving slowly to and fro." If you continue to exert a pound of pressure against him every time the swing makes a trip you'll soon have him going so high that he almost turns the whole circle. If you stop pushing the momentum will die out and the swing come to rest at 'dead center.'

"Winning trade follows the same natural laws."

"Advertisements are the force behind the swing of public favor. Each new advertisement increases the momentum. Finally the accumulated force of these numerous impulses awakens indifference to the buying point."

"If you stop advertising you lose momentum."

"The moral of which is: 'Don't stop the business swing in summer. Keep adding the pounds of advertising pressure.'—Exchange.

The most successful men in business, long since discovered that the best time to advertise, is all the time. Spasmodic effort may bring some results, but the steady, persistent work means growth and permanent development.

This is the secret of mail order success. The big catalog on the center table, contains a list of every article in stock, with pictures that are attractive and prices that seem cheap. This book is a matter of daily reference and it has a wonderful influence as a trade solicitor.

The merchant can not adopt this policy, nor pursue these methods, but he can reach the same constituency through the daily paper that goes into the same homes every day, and is more religiously read than the mail order book. Keep the pendulum moving and good results are bound to follow.

A gentleman who has been out through the rural districts, for the past ten days, says that the farmers are so busy with their crops, and the income tax blanks, that the political squabble does not interest them. The crops will mature, and after the harvest the income tax will receive intelligent attention. Wisconsin has several issues more important than the success of the two Colonels.

The democrats are congratulating themselves on being rid of Mr. Bryan, but the vote on temporary chairman yesterday does not look like it. The Colonel came within 40 of controlling the convention, and he holds the balance of power by a big majority on the two-thirds vote required to nominate. That means that he will name the candidate, and it won't be Clark.

The state university and La Follette, organ at Madison, is having a busy time explaining the McGovern-Cochran-Roosevelt-La Follette episode at the Chicago convention, and in the final analysis it appears as clear as mud. The tall attempted to "wig the dog and the dog was willing, but the tall got mixed up in the effort. Consequently there was no wig. Now you see it and now you don't, according to the Madison Journal.

If the Chicago Tribune can bring it about, the new party will be launched under the leadership of Roosevelt and Bryan. That's a combination that ought to capture all the progressives in sight except La Follette. Just what disposition the Tribune proposes to make of the Wisconsin senator, is not stated, but he will be taken care of.

The Thaw family is again in the limelight, but the political game is so much more absorbing that, but little interest is shown in the disgusting details. Mrs. Thaw wants a divorce more than she wants the $500 a month allowance, and Thaw wants his liberty, as he thinks he has been crazy long enough.

PLACE FOR T. R.
The following is credited to a negro preacher in Washington:

"Ah dreamed Ah was in heaven the other night. Ah Ah stood just inside the golden gate dur came a rub, and George Washington was announced by St. Peter. 'Let him come up and sit on mah right side,' said the good Lawd, who was sittin' on de throne."

"Pretty soon there was another knock, and Abraham Lincoln was announced by St. Peter. 'Let him sit on mah left side,' said the Lawd."

"Don Ah heard a terrible knockin' at the gate, and the angels all trombled."

"St. Peter opened de gate carefully and den he turned round and said to de Lawd: 'You'll have to get down and give him your seat, Lawd, it's Mr. Roosevelt.'—Puro Food Magazine.

A small Norwegian had presented himself before a Minnesota school teacher, who first asked him his name.

"Pete Peterson," he replied.

"And how old are you?" the teacher asked next.

"I do not know how old I have," said the lad.

"Well, when were you born?" continued the teacher.

"I not born at all; I got stoppin'—"Metropolitan.

Don't grab him off just because he wears a white vest. It isn't an infallible sign of aristocracy.

What if he does work in a fly-paper factory? A man in that line of work is apt to stick to his job.

A man whose ears stick out from his head like the wings of a biplane is apt to be generous to a fault, perhaps more generous to a fault than to anything else.

Puzzle: What was the Matter?

"I don't know what was the matter with my husband this morning," confided the June bride to her friend.

"In his sleep."

"I am dreadfully afraid so. He has had to stay at the office very late three or four nights. Last night he didn't get home until nearly 2 o'clock and he was so exhausted and dizzy that he fell over the umbrella rack and awakened the whole household. This morning he was about burning up with a fever and he didn't touch a bit of breakfast. He said the very thought of food offended him and he looked so haggard and worn that I felt sorry for him. I think he must be working too hard."

In fact, I'm half inclined to think I'm twice as great as —

LA FOLLETTE REFUSES TO DISCUSS HIS THIRD PARTY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, June 26.—Senator La Follette was back in Washington today from the Baltimore convention and met all inquiries of whether he had conferred with William J. Bryan that he had absolutely nothing to say on that subject. "I merely went over to the convention," he said, "and may go over again." Efforts to get the senator to deny or affirm that he had conferred with Mr. Bryan or other leaders on the third-party movement or any other political subject were met with a consistent refusal to talk about it.

CAMPAIGN MANAGER HAS NOT BEEN CHOSEN AS YET

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, June 26.—Leaders in the republican party who were instrumental in renominating President Taft sided with the president in favor of the selection of Charles D. Miller, his secretary, as chairman of the republican national committee and active manager of the Taft campaign. It was said today that the president would not formally announce his preference for Mr. Miller until the latter returns from Chicago and has indicated his willingness to take up the work. Talk of Representative McKinley of Illinois, the pre-convention manager of the Taft forces, has been frowned upon by Mr. McKinley himself.

He must find her!

Going into the little sewing room where she kept her mending basket, he picked up a small stocking, partly done, and laid it down again with a sob. Little 12's stocking was the last thing her fingers had touched.

Surely she was not gone.

Opening the door of her closet, he looked with tear-filled eyes at the well-known dresses hanging there. Dainty, familiar garments—how each one of them spoke of her! And the heart piercing, painfully vivid feeling swept over him how pure and good she was!

If he could only tell her—

"Poor little girl! It seemed but yesterday when he took her away from a home where she had everything, took her away to make sacrifice for him. She had loved pretty things, but had denied herself that he and the children might go well dressed."

And in stress of emotion he kissed the garments and sobbed into them his grief and remorse and bereavement.

He had loved her—yes—and was very proud of her. But no sooner had he caught at this justification of himself than he remembered how sometimes he had been harsh and domineering and negligent, and—

Kind God, could he ever forgive the memory of it! He had sometimes made her sob in anguish as if her heart were broken.

And under the newly sodden mound, under the rain, peacefully slept the wife.

DECIDED CHANGE TALKED OF FOR THE LICENSE LAWS

That something may be done at the next session of the Wisconsin legislature in regard to the marriage license law is now considered probable, the consensus of opinion as expressed at the recent convention of the county clerks at Grand Rapids, was in favor of a law providing that all applicants for marriage licenses should wait the entire five days until the issuance of the license until the provision for special permits should be entirely eliminated. The sentiment was also in favor of a required publication of names of persons receiving licenses with the ages of the applicants. The practice of issuing special permits, it is thought, removes the effectiveness of the five day requirement.

CHORUS.
(Of ticket holders.)

Goodby, Ruby, I must leave you, Though it breaks my heart to go, I can never really believe you, Since you have deceived me so. For you tricked me for my bankroll, And I walked back home that day Farewell, Ruby dear, forever, Goodby, Ruby Clay.

Oh, you have a pretty face, Ruby Clay.

And I played you strong for place, Ruby Clay.

But it wore an angry frown When you deftly threw me down, And I'm living on the town, Ruby Clay.

CHORUS.
Goodby, Ruby dear, forever, I can't see you any more, You were 'touted up as clever, I never was stung like that before, Ruby, tell me what detained you, When you hit the stretch that day? Pork and beans now for Yours Truly, Goodby, Ruby Clay!

NOTABLE CONFERENCE HELD IN BALTIMORE LAST NIGHT

Hide Secret Conference, Lasting Three-fourths of an hour.

Baltimore, Md., June 25.—Francis J. Henney of California, one of Col. Theodore Roosevelt's fighting lieutenants in the republican national convention, and Chas. R. Crane of Chicago, who helped to finance the Roosevelt campaign for the republican nomination, were in consultation here Tuesday night with William Jennings Bryan for three-quarters of an hour. Bryan and Crane were gone before their visit became generally known. No one could be found who would discuss the incident.

In connection with the Henry Crane (corrupt) visit tonight it was learned that two representatives of the Outlook, one of them Carl Hovland who has been close to Col. Roosevelt since his return from Africa two years ago were in town, both put up at one of the headquarters hotels. They were anxious regarding the possibility of a progressive-conservative fight in the convention.

LUNCHEON IN HONOR OF MISS ETHEL POND

Misses Ada and Etta Pond Entertained This Afternoon For Niece Whose Engagement They Announced.

At a one o'clock luncheon given by Misses Ada and Etta Pond at their home, 17 East street, this afternoon, the engagement of their niece, Miss Ethel Pond of Madison to Matthew Patterson also of Madison was announced.

The dining room was prettily decorated in pink and white. Strings of various sized pink and white hearts were hung from the chandelier to the corners of the room and the curtains were draped with the like emblems of the god of love. Covers were laid for sixteen guests and artistic hand-painted place-cards, heavily pierced with Cupid's arrow, the work of Miss Pond, were at each plate. The table was most tastefully arranged and was decorated with pink wild-roses. The center piece was a rowan of Cupid's in the midst of the roses and at each end of the table were Cupid candlesticks. Festoons of pink and white hung from the edge of the table.

The announcement of the engagement was made after the guests were seated. A delicious five course luncheon was served, after which a photograph of the room with the young ladies seated at the table was taken and each guest will be given one as a favor.

Miss Ethel Pond is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pond of Madison, but formerly of this city. She is a graduate from the Janesville high school, class of 1909, and is now a Junior at the state university. She has a large circle of friends in this city. Mr. Patterson, her fiancé, is in the employ of the state fish commission. No definite date for the wedding has been arranged, but it will take place sometime in the autumn.

Misses Ada and Etta Pond were assisted in the affair this afternoon, by Mrs. Andrew Pond, and Mrs. E. C. Bailey and Mrs. W. S. Pond. The following ladies were the guests: Miss Eloise Fifield and her cousin, Miss Ruth Wintermute of Kibbourn, Wis., the Misses Mildred Dole, Marcela Rogan, Vera Nolan, Hazel Howe, Edna Howe, Jessie Monzie, Helen Jeffries, Marion Blodgett, Clara Blodgett, Phoebe McManus, Christine Galbraith, all of this city, and Miss Marion Purinton of Evansville, Miss Mariel Burton of Evansville, and Miss Ethel Pond of Madison.

Fire, started by the short circuiting of a motor used to pump water, destroyed all the buildings on the Partridge farm, owned by William B. CROSS STATE BOUNDARY;
RISK CHANCE OF OFFICE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Carson, Nevada, June 26.—Governor Tasker Oddie and George Wood, recently appointed but not formally qualified to fill the vacancy in the United States senate caused by the death of Senator George Nixon, crossed the boundary of the state yesterday and Mr. Oddie nearly lost the opportunity to don his toga. That he did not was due to the refusal of Lieut. Gov. Herbert Ross, a democrat, to accede to the wishes of a group of politicians who attempted to "rail-road" a democrat into the senate as a successor to the late Senator Nixon, a republican. Governor Oddie and Woodfield are both republicans.

Forty-three Pictures Illustrating Manner in Which Madison Celebrated Day On Exhibition.

Forty-three photographs illustrating the "Sane Fourth of July" celebration held at Madison last year are on exhibition for a few days at the public library. The following bibliography of articles on "Sane Fourth" celebrations has been compiled by Miss Kinsey.

Orfordville, June 25.—On Friday evening, June 28th, the young people of the Orfordville M. E. church, will present the popular play, "Scenes at the Union Depot." The entertainment will take place at Wea's Opera house and is being given by the young people in order to raise funds to redeem their promise of subscribing sixty dollars toward the new play fund.

The force is of a highly amusing and interesting character, and for some time the amateur actors have been very busy rehearsing their parts. The hour for commencement is 8:30.

Next Sunday will be a red letter day for the Orfordville Methodists. Special services will be held morning and evening, rededicating the church since refurbishing. The new carpet, towards which an anonymous friend contributed $100, and the new pews are being installed this week. The opportunity has been taken to effect several important improvements and the appearance and value of the church property will be greatly enhanced.

The Rev. Salsbury will preach a dedication sermon in the evening. The District Superintendent, Rev. John Hestrich, will conduct the evening service with the pastor and the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered. Appropriate music will be rendered by the choir. A most cordial invitation is extended to everybody to attend.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

THE PESSIMIST.

By Howard L. Ramm.

The pessimist is a dejected mortal who is continually rising to a point of order in the mournful and lugubrious accents of the amateur undertaker. A natural born pessimist, one whose soul is in his work, is one of the most distressing sights in the English language. He can seat a room in gloom and gloom and whole-souled melancholy in an assembly of bright-faced citizens than a 10 per cent advance in the price of butter. The pessimist is never satisfied with anything except some forecast of impending evil, which he is able to detect with the naked eye at a great distance from the scene of action. Just now the baleful look of the pessimist, cast upon the crops, it is too dry for the corn, too wet for the oats, too cold for the fruit, too hot for the hay, and too late for everything except a season of prayer. We never saw a genuine, trustworthy pessimist in our life who did not prophesy that somebody would fall into the water and break a leg or two before the bell rang for prayer meeting. When the new minister comes to town the pessimist goes to hear him once and then prophesies that he won't last six months. If the minister receives an encore at the end of the conference year, the pessimist says it is because his congregation is too chuckleheaded to tell the Pentateuch from the concordance. If somebody tries to resurrect the village by organizing a booster club, the pessimist will proceed to excite the light-waved element by a series of remarks about the high rate of taxation. If the country association is to have a dinner for the benefit of the "Lawn Mowers" union, the pessimist will make some bitter references to people who waste their substance in riotous living. If the pessimist should look upon the bright side of anything once or get a glimpse of the silver lining of the cloud, he would be blinded for life. The best treatment for the confirmed pessimist is to place him in contact with your dear car early in the conversation.

Better Meals Now Cost Less

Keep the Full Quantity and All the Nutriment of Your Foods by Cooking in UNION COOKERY BAGS

HOW much food will a dollar buy? That question is not answered in the store alone. It is not answered until the food is set on your table and its pleasure and benefit to your family measured.

To hear that the cost of living has gone up 10% to 15% is startling—because we must actually see ourselves pay out just that much more money. But wouldn't it be just as startling—and agreeably startling—to hear that we can get 20% to 25% more for our money?

We can! Thousands of housewives have proved it. Every housewife can do it. Not only get more actual quantity—but serve the foods with enhanced flavors and tastiness—just by adopting a simple, easy method of cooking that had its beginning when fire was first used ages ago.

We have got too far away from the original principles of cooking—and consequently we are losing much of our food values. The ancients who first practiced cookery, wrapped the raw foods in molds of earth or in the leaves of plants to retain all the flavors and nutritious elements during the cooking process. That same principle has now been simplified and made convenient to follow in our modern kitchens, by the use of Union Cookery Bags—made of a special paper prepared for this purpose only.

A four-pound roast when cooked the ordinary way in an oven, loses about three-quarters of a pound—dries out and shrinks—a waste which costs 15c to 25c actual money spent for something we do not get. And the part which we lose, is the most palatable and delicious element of the roast—the rich juices and flavors. We add water to a roast cooked in the ordinary way to make gravy!!! Add water!—and let the natural gravy evaporate into the heated air of the oven!

Just a little thought shows the common-sense of Union Bag cookery. Nothing can escape from the article being cooked. The uncooked food—fish, fowl, roast or any meat, bread, cake, vegetable—is simply placed in the Bag and the opening of the Bag sealed with pins or paper-clips. Place the closed Bag in the oven, on a grid or on a perforated shelf. Do not put any pan underneath the Bag. The paper is tough enough to hold the contents securely. As the food cooks, heat circulates evenly around the inside of the Bag—and the moisture is all retained close to the food—no basting, no turning of the food. As the Bag concentrates the heat around the food, less fuel is required—lower heat is used than in ordinary cooking. Yet no more time is required—less time is required for most foods to cook in Union Bags.

Then the Bag and contents are slipped out of the oven—drawn on to a plate or platter—the Bag cut open with a knife—and every ounce of food that went into the Bag is there when the Bag is opened. With meats, a rich natural gravy covers the bottom of the Bag and may be poured out into a bowl or served over the meat.

You have never known the full fragrance of roast meat—the downy lightness of cakes—the thin brown crust on a loaf of bread—the rich flavor of vegetables—until you have cooked these foods in Union Cookery Bags in your kitchen.

You can cook cake and bread in the same oven at the same time with marked results—just a Bag for each loaf and the cake or bread is not touched by the color of the baked goods at the bottom. The odor of cooking cannot get into the living rooms of the house. A cooked food gives off but very little odor—it is, during the process of ordinary cooking, the evaporating of the flavors into the air, that the odor is spread throughout the house. Union Cookery Bags prevent that unpleasantness.

Also, kitchen work is greatly lessened—no more labor of scrubbing, scrubbing and polishing kettles, pots and pans. The only pans used with Union Cookery Bags are the light tin for baking bread and cakes. This saving of labor will be appreciated after you once experience it.

A Free Book—with many recipes, written from experiences of expert chefs in Europe and America just been published, telling you everything you want to know and exactly how to use Union Cookery Bags for cooking all foods. These books are on free distribution at the office of this paper. Call and get your copy—just ask for the Paper Bag Cookery Book. Be sure to get this valuable Free Book—then go to your grocer, butcher, hardware or stationery dealer and get a package of Union Cookery Bags—sorted sizes for only 25c. If your dealer does not have them, insist that he get them for you immediately from his wholesale house. Use Union Cookery Bags. Experience is the best recommendation of this wonderful, simple and economical cooking method—so get the Bags, as well as the book—NOW—and

The Three Guardsmen

... By ...
ALEXANDRE DUMAS

"I suspected so myself at first, and now I think entirely as he does. My dear M. Bonaparte has not, then, for an instant suspected me!"

"So far from it, madame, he was too proud of your prudence and particularly of your love. But how did you escape?"

"I took advantage of a moment at which they left me alone, and as I knew from this morning what to think of my abduction, with the help of the sheets I let myself down from the window. Then, as I concluded my husband would be at home, I hastened hither to inform him."

"Of what?"

"Oh, that is not my secret! I must not, therefore, tell you."

"Besides," said D'Artagnan—"pardon me, madame, if, guard as I am, I remind you of prudence—besides, I believe we are not here in a very proper place for imparting confidences. The man I have put to flight will return reinforced. If they find us here we are lost. I have sent for three of my friends, but who knows whether they may be at home?"

"But whither shall we fly? Whither escape to?"

"Let us in the first place get away from this house. When clear of it, we shall see."

And the young woman and the young man, without taking the trouble to shut the door after them, descended the Rue des Passereaux rapidly, turned into the Rue des Passereaux, and did not stop till they came to the Place St. Sulpice.

"And now what are we to do, and whither do you wish me to conduct you?" said D'Artagnan.

"My intention was to inform M. Laporte by means of my husband in order that M. Laporte might tell us exactly what has taken place at the Louvre in the course of the last three days and whether there was any danger in presenting myself there."

"But I," said D'Artagnan, "can go and inform M. Laporte."

"No doubt you could, only there is one misfortune in it, and that is that M. Bonaparte is known at the Louvre and would be allowed to pass, whereas you are not known there, and the gate would be closed against you."

"Ah! but," said D'Artagnan, "there is no doubt you have at some wicket of the Louvre a concierge who is devoted to you and who, thanks to a password, would—"

"And if I give you this password," said she, "would you forget it as soon as you had made use of it?"

"By the faith of a gentleman!" said D'Artagnan, with an accent so truthful no one could mistake it.

"But I? Where shall I go in the meanwhile?"

"Do you know no one from whose house M. Laporte can come and fetch you?"

"No! I know no one to whom I dare trust."

"Stop!" said D'Artagnan. "We are near my friend Athos' door. Yes; here it is."

"But if he should be at home and see me?"

"He is not at home, and I will carry away the key after having placed you in his apartment."

"But if he should return?"

"Oh, he won't return. And if he should be told that I have brought a lady with me and that lady is in his apartment?"

"But that will compromise me sadly, you know."

"Of what consequence can it be to you? Nobody knows you. Besides, we are in a situation in which we must not be too particular."

As D'Artagnan had foreseen, Athos was not at home. He took the key, which was customarily given him as one of the family, unlocked the door and introduced M. Bonaparte into the apartment.

"Here, make yourself at home," said he. "Wait here. Fasten the door with an open key to nobody unless you hear three taps like these—" and he tapped thrice—"two taps close together and pretty hard, the other at a considerable distance and more light."

cleux. "Now, in my turn, let me give you my orders."

"I am all attention."

"Present yourself at the wicket of the Louvre on the side of the Rue de l'Echelle and ask for Germain. He will ask you what you want and you will answer by these two words—'Tours and Brizelles.' Tell him to go and fetch M. Laporte, the queen's valet de chambre."

"And when he shall have informed him and M. Laporte is come?"

"You will send him to me."

"That is all very well. But where and how shall I see you again?"

"Let that care be mine and be at ease."

D'Artagnan bowed to M. Bonaparte, darting at her the most loving glance that he could possibly concentrate upon her charming little person, and while he descended the stairs he heard the door closed and double-locked. In two bounds he was at the Louvre. As he entered the wicket of l'Echelle 10 o'clock struck. All the events he had described had taken place within half an hour.

Everything fell out as Mme. Bonaparte said it would. On hearing the password Germain bowed. In a few minutes Laporte was at the lodge. In two words D'Artagnan informed him where Mme. Bonaparte was. Laporte assured himself by having it twice repeated of the exactitude of the address and set off at a run. He had, however, scarcely got ten steps before he returned.

"Young man," said he to D'Artagnan, "I have a place of advice to give you. Have you any friend whose clock is too slow?"

"What then?"

"Go and call upon him in order that he may give evidence of your having been with him at half past 9. In a court of justice that is called an alibi."

D'Artagnan found his advice prudent. He took to his heels and was soon at M. de Treville's. But instead of passing to the saloon with the rest of the world he required to be introduced to M. de Treville's closet. A servant went to inform M. de Treville that his young compatriot, having something important to communicate, solicited a private audience. Five minutes after M. de Treville was asking D'Artagnan what he could do to serve him and what caused his visit at so late an hour.

"Pardon me, monsieur," said D'Artagnan, who had profited by the moment he had been left alone to put back M. de Treville's clock three-quarters of an hour, "but I thought as it was not too late to wait upon you."

"Twenty minutes past 9!" cried M. de Treville, looking at the clock.

"Why, that's impossible!"

"Look, rather, monsieur," said D'Artagnan, "the clock shows it."

"That's true," said M. de Treville. "I should have thought it had been later. But what can I do for you?"

Then D'Artagnan told M. de Treville a long story about the queen. He expressed to him the fears he entertained with respect to her majesty. He related to him what he had heard of the projects of the cardinal with regard to Buckingham, and all with a tranquillity and serenity of which M. de Treville was the more the dupe from having himself, as we have said, observed something fresh between the cardinal, the king and the queen.

As 10 o'clock was striking, D'Artagnan left M. de Treville, who thanked him for his information, recommended him to have the service of the king and queen always at heart and returned to the saloon. But at the foot of the stairs D'Artagnan remembered he had forgotten his cane. He consequently sprang up again, re-entered the closet and with a turn of his finger set the clock right again.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Plot Thickens.

HIS visit to M. de Treville being paid, D'Artagnan took his penance but longest way home-ward. He was thinking of Mme. Bonaparte. He already fancied himself, so rapid in the progress of our dreams upon the wings of imagination, accosted by a messenger from the young woman who brought him some billot appointing a meeting, a gold chain or a diamond.

Men then made their way in the world by the means of women without blushing. Such as were only beautiful gave their beauty. Such as were rich gave in addition a part of their money.

D'Artagnan possessed nothing. The mercer had told him he was rich; the young man might easily guess that, and with so weak a man as M. Bonaparte it was most likely the reverse.

wife kept the purse. But all this had no influence upon the feeling produced by the sight of Mme. Bonaparte and interest remained nearly foreign to this commencement of love.

D'Artagnan, disposed to become the most tender of lovers, was at the time a very devoted friend. He did not forget his friends. The pretty Mme. Bonaparte was just the woman to walk in company with Athos, Portos and Aramis, to whom D'Artagnan would be so proud to display such a conquest. Besides, on pressing occasions, in extreme difficulties, D'Artagnan would become the preserver of his friends.

And M. Bonaparte, whom D'Artagnan had pushed into the hands of the police, denying him aloud, although he had promised in a whisper to save him. We are compelled to admit to our readers that D'Artagnan thought nothing about him in any way.

D'Artagnan, reflecting on his future loves, addressing himself to the beautiful night and smiling at the stars, remembered the Rue Cherche-Midi or Chasse-Midi, as it was then called. As he found himself in the quarter in which Aramis lived, he took it into his head to pay his friend a visit in order to explain to him why he had sent Planchet to him with a request that he would come instantly to the mousetrap. Now, if Aramis was at home when Planchet came to his abode he had doubtless hastened to the Rue des Fosseuses, and, finding nobody there, but his two other companions, perhaps they would not be able to conceive what all this meant. This inquiry required an explanation—at least, so D'Artagnan thought.

Paris for two hours past had been dark and begun to be deserted. Eleven o'clock struck by all the clocks of the Faubourg St. Germain; it was a delightful weather. The house in which Aramis dwelt was situated between the Rue Cassette and the Rue Servandoni.

D'Artagnan had just passed the Rue Cassette and already perceived the door of his friend's house, when he perceived something like a shadow issuing from the Rue Servandoni. This something was enveloped in a cloak, and D'Artagnan at first believed it was a man, but by the smallness of the form, the hesitation of the progress and the indecision of the step he soon discovered that it was a woman. Further, this woman, as if not certain of the house she was seeking, lifted up her eyes to look around her, stopped, went a little back and then returned again. D'Artagnan was perplexed.

"What!" said he to himself. "It would be droll if this late flying dove should be in search of our theological friend's house."

And D'Artagnan, making himself as small as he could, concealed himself in the darkest side of the street.

The young woman continued to advance, for, in addition to the lightness of her step, which had betrayed her, she had just emitted a little voice, which announced a clear sweet voice. D'Artagnan believed this cough to be a signal.

She boldly drew near to Aramis' shutter and tapped at three equal intervals with her bent finger.

The three blows were scarcely struck when the inward casement was opened and a light appeared through the apertures of the shutter.

But the shutter remained closed. Still more, the light which had shone out for an instant disappeared.

D'Artagnan thought this could not last long and continued to look with all his eyes and listen with all his ears. He was right. At the end of some seconds two sharp taps were heard in the interior, the young woman replied by a single tap and the shutter was opened a little way.

It may be judged whether D'Artagnan looked or listened with avidity. Unfortunately the light had been removed into another chamber, but the eyes of the young man were accustomed to the night.

D'Artagnan then saw that the young woman took from her pocket a white object, which she unfolded quickly and which took the form of a handkerchief. She made her interlocutor observe the corner of this unfolded object.

"What could that handkerchief mean?"

Placed where he was D'Artagnan could not perceive the face of Aramis. We say Aramis because the young man entertained no doubt that it was his friend who held this dialogue from the interior with the lady of the exterior. He placed himself close to the angle of the wall, from which his eye could plunge into the interior of the apartment.

Upon gaining this advantage D'Artagnan was near uttering a cry of surprise. It was not Aramis who was conversing with the nocturnal visitor; it was a woman! D'Artagnan, however, could only see enough to recognize the form of her vestments, not enough to distinguish her features.

At the same instant the woman of the apartment drew a second handkerchief from her pocket and exchanged it for that which had just been shown to her. Then some words were pronounced by the two women. At length the shutter was closed. The woman who was outside the window turned round and passed within four steps of D'Artagnan, pulling down the hood of her cloak, but the precaution was too late. D'Artagnan had already recognized Mme. Bonaparte!

Mme. Bonaparte! This supposition that it was she who crossed the mind of D'Artagnan when she drew the handkerchief from her pocket, but what probability was there that Mme. Bonaparte, who had sent for M. Laporte in order to be reconducted to the Louvre, should be running about the streets of Paris at half past 11 at night at the risk of being carried off a second time?

It must be, then, for some affair of importance. And what is the affair of the greatest importance to a pretty woman of twenty-five? Love.

But was it on her own account or on account of another person that she exposed herself to such hazards? This was a question the young man asked himself, whom the demon of jealousy already gnawed to the heart, neither more nor less than a settled lover.

There was, besides, a very simple means of satisfying himself whether Mme. Bonaparte was going. That was to follow her.

A GREAT RECORD.

Hard to Duplicate It in Janesville

Scores of representative citizens of Janesville are testifying for Doan's Kidney Pills. Such a record of local endorsement is unequalled in modern times. This public statement made by a citizen is but one of the many that have preceded it and the hundreds that will follow. Read it:

Mrs. Emilie Hall, 542 Franklin St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I suffered terribly from pains through the small of my back and limbs and I also had trouble from the kidney secretions. Someone finally advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did so, procuring them at the People's Drug Co. The contents of two or three boxes corrected my trouble. I hope that the publication of my statement will induce other kidney sufferers to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

(Statement given in August, 1908.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT.

Mrs. Hall was interviewed on September 23, 1910 and she said: "You may continue to publish my former statement regarding Doan's Kidney Pills. Since I used them two years ago, I have had no further need of a kidney medicine."

Made in Janesville

Janesville to grow in population and wealth must have greater opportunities for labor. No city can grow to a size of any importance without them. It has been growth of home industries, and the multiplicity of opportunities thus opened that has made many of our cities grow to positions of importance in wealth and population.

Janesville has the industries and it is upon their growth that the future of the city depends. It is of utmost importance that we do our part to make their rapid growth certain.
